

ANGLO-CATHOLIC HISTORY SOCIETY

A Hitherto Unpublished Essay by Peter F. Anson

THE EVOLUTION OF ANGLO-CATHOLIC RITUAL AND CEREMONIAL 1833-1883

Peter Anson is a name which is familiar to many. The first Occasional Paper published by the ACHS was devoted to him, and his books have illuminated many aspects of the modern Anglo-Catholic Movement.

The Society was contacted by Alan Robinson with the welcome but unexpected news that he had an unpublished typescript given to him by Anson. It is clear that it is unfinished and that originally the author had intended to carry it through to cover the period after the Second World War. However, as with many of Anson's works, he abandoned it part way through. It still seemed to be worthwhile publishing.

It has been edited by Michael Yelton to update various temporal references and the like. The thanks of the Society are extended to Alan Robinson for his generosity in allowing this interesting piece to see the light of day.
